EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND
WILL BE BURIED TOMORROW.*Body to Be Laid at Rest in Princeton Cemetery Beside That of Daughter Ruth.*THE PRESIDENT WILL ATTEND

In References to Wishes of Mrs. Cleveland Obsequies Will Be as Quiet as Possible—Many Prominent Men Will Gather at Bier.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 25.—Former President Grover Cleveland, who died at his home in this place yesterday morning, will be buried tomorrow afternoon in Princeton cemetery, in accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Cleveland. The obsequies will be as private as possible. Interment will be made in Princeton cemetery, where lie the remains of Ruth, eldest of the Cleveland children, whose death was such a sad blow to her father.

Telegrams and letters of condolence from the entire world have been received at the Cleveland home, one of the first of which came from President Roosevelt. On account of the prominence of the dead statesman it will be impossible to fully carry out the wishes of Mrs. Cleveland. President and Mrs. Roosevelt will attend as well as men prominent in almost every walk of life who admired Mr. Cleveland. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt have sent a wreath of flowers to be laid upon Mr. Cleveland's casket. The President has planned to leave Oyster Bay yesterday to witness the races at New London. The government yacht Mayflower was waiting just off the President's dock when the news of Mr. Cleveland's death was received.

Arrangements for the funeral of ex-President Grover Cleveland will not be completed until the arrival of President Roosevelt at noon tomorrow. A death mask of Mr. Cleveland will be taken today. Mrs. Cleveland refuses to allow the body to lie in state.

TAMWORTH, N. H., June 25.—(Special.)—Accompanied by Mrs. John H. Finley of New York, Marion and Esther Cleveland, the two elder children of late ex-President Cleveland, left today for Princeton to attend their father's funeral. KEPHART AND SNOWDEN ARE DRY DELEGATES.

Their Name Certified to by National Prohibition Party for Columbus Convention.

UNIONTOWN, June 25.—Herman M. Kephart of Connellsville and C. I. Snowden are delegates to the National Prohibition convention which meets in Columbus July 15. William Linkins, Congressional candidate today, was shocked when he received official notification that the names of Snowden and Kephart had been regularly certified to and he knew in his heart that they were not prohibitionists.

Whether Snowden and Kephart will attend the convention is not known but they will have the proper credentials to go to do so. The mix up evidently occurred in the County Commission office where the names were certified to and instead of them going on the Republican tally sheets they were very likely inadvertently transcribed on the Prohibition sheets. As the two delegates have already attended the Chicago convention at Chicago it is altogether probable that they will not have any hesitations to go in for the Columbus side show.

Mr. Linkins states that there are twenty delegates from Fayette county to the convention and these will leave on July 14th for Pittsburgh where a special wagon train will carry them to Columbus to attend the convention on July 15.

LAND SLIDE STOPS TRAINS; FOOD SCARCE.

Pickles and Cheese Eagerly Sought By Passengers When Held Up By Landslide.

Pickles and cheese and such things were in demand last night at Indian Creek and it is reported that the little stores in that neighborhood sold out entirely of this character of eatables along with a large amount of canned goods. The occasion for the great demand for something to eat was caused by an immense slide which is described by railroad men as being as large as the Youth House, a mile east of Indian Creek. In the mass was an immense rock that required time and patience to remove.

The slide occurred at 5 o'clock, covering both tracks of the B. & O. and it had to be worked from both sides and in the middle. Train No. 19 was caught east of the slide and held there. Train No. 87 last freight, was also back of the slide and then train No. 57 the New York and Chicago express, was also stopped at Youth Creek and had to wait there. Train No. 75 passengers could not get out of the cars but there was some about who did not have sufficient funds to partake of this luxury and they walked to Indian Creek along with the Accommodation passengers. Passengers of train No. 12 which left at 8 o'clock were also held up at Indian Creek.

Several uncomplaining mountain boys bought up the stock of cheese and pickles as well as other things as well as anything that would do ordinarily for a picnic and paddled it to the hungry passengers, who readily bought it.

The trains were held in the mountains while a terrific storm was in progress and those who were unable to get a lift to exit made a halt comfortable night while the hungry ones were desperate. The local railroad offices sent out all available men to clear away the dirt but the trains could not get through until 12 o'clock this morning, and when the blood songers arrived in Connellsville about seven hours late they were both tired and disgusted besides many of them were still hungry. The company used every effort in getting the slide cleared and the men worked in the mud up to the waistline.

GEO. A. TORRENCE CALLED BY DEATH.

Aged and Widely-Known
New Havenite Passes Away.

HAS BEEN ILL FOR PAST YEAR.

Was Senior Warden and One of Oldest Members of Trinity Church, New Haven—Identified With Banking Interests in Early Days.

With the death of George A. Torrence which occurred this morning about 8 o'clock at his late home on Main street New Haven marks the passing of one of the oldest and most widely known residents of this section. Mr. Torrence had been suffering nearly a year being confined to his bed the greater part of his illness. His death was due to general debility. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

Mr. Torrence was aged 72 years six months and 27 days. He was the son of the late Joseph and Katharine Torrence. He was born in New Haven, Conn., on Nov. 18, 1835. Practically all his life was spent in New Haven. He received his early education in the common schools and later entered Yale college in Ohio. He was a merchant in New Haven for many years and for twenty years was senior warden of the Trinity church. He is the last surviving member of a family of three children. Thomas Torrence, a brother, died about eight months ago at his late home at York, Pa. Sister Mrs. Quinton Clark died a number of years ago.

He is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mrs. A. C. Overhill of Connellsville; Mrs. J. H. McGough of Chicago; John and Mr. Roger Torrence. Samuel Torrence, a son, died about a year ago.

The deceased was perhaps one of the best known old residents of the county having for many years been a merchant in New Haven before the Civil War. New Haven was then a prosperous little village and a great many of her enterprises were busy at all times. The leading merchants of the town the only one who had safe, became the custodian of the property money jewelry and a small business. Some of the merchants needed had these valuables forced upon them for safe keeping. George A. Torrence was familiar with the above conditions and knew something of the needs of the town and the surrounding country. On November 8, 1867, with a B. & O. cashless he opened a private bank. This house was continued under his own name until January 1871 when Joseph Johnson withdrew from it. It is Johnson's Johnson & Company, a partner and the firm name was changed to George A. Torrence & Co. bankers. The bank was located in the Johnson house on West Main street a brick building which stood a little west of what is now the Fifth block. The house prospered and was quite a factor in its financial and business life of Connellsville. New York and vicinity until 1871 when the failure of J. Cook & Company forced the house to ask for an extension which was granted but financial conditions continued bad and the house was compelled to suspend in 1875.

The house of George A. Torrence & Company was an important factor in the extension of the building and Ohio rail road from Connellsville to Chambersland and added in quite a measure the building at the South east branch of the Pennsylvania railroad.

BASEBALL ONLY ATTRACTION.

Connellsville Folk Will Observe National Holiday Without Special Program—Many Will Likely Go on Excursions ad to the Mountains.

The Fourth of July in Connellsville promises to be rather quiet from an entertainment standpoint but very noisy on account of this fact. Not a single event is scheduled for this section on that day except a baseball game between Connellsville and a game between the same teams at Scottdale. The morning game will be played at Scottdale and the afternoon game at Connellsville. The day will afford a rare opportunity for rooting with a vengeance for all the noise making apparatus on Independence Day will be all worked at both games. The fact that the people of his neighborhood will have only the base ball games to entertain them, will give ample opportunity for the street crowds to indulge in their noisy content in the usual noise making sports. A large number, however, will go to Pittsburg to see the National League games.

A peculiar condition is presented by the railroad companies this year. For the first time in years since the Pennsylvania is offering special holiday rates over its lines. Heretofore the Pennsylvania has been adhering to the regular rates while the Baltimore & Ohio has been giving special rates. Agent Douglas stated this morning that the Baltimore & Ohio had not issued any orders for special rates and would not likely do so, in view of the fact that the road is adhering to the two-cent rate in this State. Not a single excursion has been announced for the day, which is unusual especially in regard to the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Fourth of July have always been an event. Mr. Douglas stated today that he did not know whether his company would have an excursion on that date, but in previous years when excursions have been run they have been announced long before this time.

Agent W. H. Thomas of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad is offering a fare and a half for the regular holiday business and in addition has an excursion to Woodlawn Beach, Astoria, Astoria was always popular with Connellsville people and he expects many will go for the day. The fact that the Fourth comes on Saturday this year gives excellent opportunity for a longer stay than formerly. The holiday rates will cover the return trip on Sunday and many who go a considerable distance will take the advantage of returning on the evening of the Sabbath.

Superintendent J. W. Brown of the West Penn lines is making preparations for handling the large traffic that will take advantage of the holiday rates. The same schedule that was adopted last Fourth of July will be adhered to this year. Ample car service will be afforded to all passengers and especially during the hours of the ball games. The West Penn line will be the particular picnic line for the day, as many inquiries regarding cars have been received already and many will take advantage of the opportunity of spending the day in cool shady places along the West Penn system.

The mountains, too, will attract many and a number of parties are arranging to make their first trip over the Pittsburgh Indian Creek Valley railroad. President Flood will accompany all the people who may desire to spend the day in that locality but in order to make connections with this road it will be necessary to take train No. 48 on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to make connections at Indian Creek.

In the affidavit of defense filed yesterday by Attorney S. K. Gohsmith, he says that the eggs were guaranteed to be good storage eggs, but that they were bad. He further claims that they were not only unfit for use but that they were damaging to his trade and for this reason believes that he should be allowed $50 damages.

Cipher Writing.
The art of secret writing or writing in cipher was according to Polybius invented by a Greek, an her of a treatise on tactics and other works. He produced twenty methods of writing in cipher which no person could understand but we doubt much whether they would preserve this quality at the present day. It is no less strange than true that this art is so important in all planning, as long as couriers are obliged to be intercepted was held in abhorrence by the elector Frederick II. who considered it as a diabolical invention. Tritheimus abbot of Spanheim had composed several works to reveal this branch of knowledge and hostile and ignorant mathematicians being unable to comprehend the extraordinary terms he made use of to explain his method, published that the work was full of diabolical mysticism. Polybius in repeated the assertion, and Frederick in a holy zeal, ordered the original work of Tritheimus which he had in his library to be burned as the invention of the devil.

Graceless Children.
Michael Minor a French preacher who died in Paris in 1715 was noted for his graceless children in the pulpit and the empire, with which he changed from humor to pathos from the commonplace to the beautiful. "There were once pillories for swimmers," he said on a certain occasion, but it is the law of the emperor now, two-thirds of the empire would be in the air and there would be the child of five years and the dotard of eight who has only two teeth remaining to flag out an oath. "Changing suddenly to denounce those who neglected the aged parents who had cheated them in prosperity," he said, "See the tears of youth and recover their leaves. It is their root that has produced all but when the branches are loaded with flowers and fruits they yield nothing to the root. This is an image of those children who prefer their own amusement and to game away their own fortune to caring their old parents the care which they want."

The Amoeba.
The amoeba (Greek "change") the supposed pioneer in the line of living forms is a naked mass of living matter or protoplasm, flowing out in all directions in "blind processes" and the endlessly varying form has earned for the simple animal the popular name of "a blob" (Proteus mactilaculæ). They are all minute, but some are distinctly visible to the unaided eye. The jelly like creature flows along the surface of some object by the slow protrusion of its ever changing processes and in this way gets around its food. It is all stomach and all gut, it is taking hold of and digesting the food that happens to come in contact with it. On attaining its maximum size the amoeba draws itself out and breaks into two daughter amoebae each of which contains half of the mother's nucleus. This simple organism seems to exhibit in small compass the usual animal functions. It feeds, secretes, grows and reproduces itself—New York American.

TAFT PAYS TRIBUTE.

War Secretary Expresses Admiration for Character of Grover Cleveland.

COMMITTEE MEETING PUT OFF

On Account of James S. Sherman's Illness Mr. Taft Asks That Gathering of National Committee at Washington Be Postponed.

New Haven, June 25.—The death of ex-President Cleveland threw into a shadow of genuine sorrow the commencement exercises at Yale. Secretary William H. Taft was informed of the demise of Mr. Cleveland at the residence of the officials of the university, the faculty and the graduates were forming to march to Woolsey hall, in which the commencement exercises were held. He expressed his deep regret at Mr. Cleveland's death and said:

"President Cleveland was one of the great men of the country. His death is a distinct loss to the American people."

Later in the day at the commencement dinner the secretary paid a beautiful and eloquent tribute to the dead president. At the conclusion of the commencement exercises Secretary Taft announced that on account of continued illness of Representative Sherman, his running mate on the Republican national ticket, he had decided to postpone for one week the meeting of the sub-committee of the national committee which was appointed to meet him in conference to select a national chairman. The adjournment was to have been held in Washington on Wednesday, July 1. Secretary Taft's direction it will not be held until Wednesday, July 8, in Washington. The secretary sent a telegram to his private secretary in Washington, Frederick W. Carpenter, directing him to send telegrams to each member of the sub-committee notifying him of the change in the date of the conference.

"Mr. Sherman," said Secretary Taft, "is anxious to be present at the conference and it seems now that he will not be physically able to be in Washington next Wednesday. It is desirable therefore the conference be postponed."

Ex-Governor Herrick of Ohio telegraphed Secretary Taft that Mr. Sherman's condition had improved materially but that he yet was a very sick man.

At the alumni dinner, after the formal commencement exercises, Secretary Taft delivered the second of his scheduled addresses for the week. He made only a casual reference to politics in his speech, that being when he begged to advise the youngest alumnus of Yale that the term "democrat" is a "coarse historical description. To what was regarded as a significant extent he outlined his own position when he said he had come to Yale to be filled with Yale spirit, which was "the spirit of progressiveness without the spirit of destructiveness."

Mr. Taft sat between President Hendley and Senator Joseph Nabuco, the Brazilian ambassador, who was here to receive a Yale degree. He was not permitted to see his seat, however, until he had been given a ringing shout of welcome and the Chauntiqua salute by the big assemblage of alumnus. Mr. Hendley was seated next to the Brazilian ambassador. He received the degree of doctor of laws, but was obliged to leave the dining hall before the speechmaking began.

WAS LOVELY EVENING AFFAIR.

Miss Ruth Loucks Becomes Bride of William Sampson Wiley at Eight O'Clock—Second Band Concert on Next Sunday—Other News Notes.

SCOTSDALE, June 25.—One of the most attractive of home weddings and one of perfect appointments united Miss Ruth Loucks, youngest daughter of Abraham S. Loucks and William Sampson Wiley at eight o'clock on Wednesday evening in the presence of a large number of guests. The officiating ministers were Rev. J. J. Hutchinson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by the Rev. William C. Weaver, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, both of Scottdale. The complete and impressive ring ceremony was used. The bride was attended by Mrs. Joseph M. Zimmers of Scottdale as her matron of honor, while Miss Mabel Grizer of Tyrone was maid of honor, and Miss Dorothy Howard of Philadelphia, Miss Grace Loucks of Scottdale, a cousin; Miss Bertha Kalp of Scottdale were the bridesmaids. A little niece of the bride, Charlotte Loucks, Kelly, was the first flower girl. Wiley's elder brother, Charles S. Wiley of Scottdale, was the best man and the ushers were Charles H. Loucks and John S. Loucks, brothers of the bride, J. Wesley Wiley, brother of the groom, Roy F. Wiley, Joseph M. Zimmers and J. S. Kalp. The strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march by the Barrell orchestra, the stridingly beautiful bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father. She was charmingly gowned in cream white messaline, satin fashioned over a Baby Prince model and profusely draped with Princess lace. A small vest of tulle net and applique of soutache braid gave individuality to the simple but rich gown. The bride carried bride's roses, showered with lilies of the valley, and her veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms.

The matron of honor was gowned in pale pink radium silk and carried Killarney roses. The honor maid wore embroidered batiste and carried white Alexander daisies. The frocks of the bridesmaids were white batiste made Princess and trimmed with Mechlin and Baby Irish lace. In their hair they wore white aigrettes and carried Marguerites. The little flower girls were dressed in white Persian lawn and Valenciennes lace and carried large leopards all filled with sweet peas.

The house was beautifully decorated in daisies and ferns, the mantels and alcoves being banked with these. Rose colored shades added their soft light to the scene. The wedding supper was served by Caterer Kenney of Scottdale. The bride's table was set by the library, while the decorations were in smilax and pink and white carnations. Hand painted place cards marked the place of each guest. The lights were shaded with pink.

Following the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Wiley left and a shower of rice and confetti, on their wedding journey, the itinerary of which was wisely but with great difficulty kept a secret. On their return they will be at home on November 1 at No. 4510 Locust street, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Wiley is a graduate of the Scottdale High School, the Mt. Pleasant Institute and for a year was a student at Wellesley College. Miss Howard, one of her bridesmaids, was a college friend, and Miss Grizer, another of her bridesmaids, is a student at the Woman's College, Baltimore. Mr. Wiley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley of Scottdale, and is engaged in a manufacturing business in Philadelphia. The bride is one of Scottdale's most beautiful and popular girls and numerous pretty affairs have been given in her honor. Mrs. J. M. Zimmers entertained at cards last Wednesday. Miss Grace Loucks gave a card party on Monday evening and on Tuesday evening Miss Mabel Grizer gave the rehearsal dinner, the decorations being daisies. Guests were present from Philadelphia, Toledo, Greensburg, Wilkesburg, Washington and Marion, Indiana.

The Sunday Concert.

The initial Sunday concert of the Grand Army Band was such a success last Sunday afternoon that the program has been arranged for another concert to take place next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Loucks' park. Leader J. Frank Hardy has made up the following program for the occasion:

March, "Domineau," Chambers overture, "Poet and Peasant," Supper song, "Shining Light," for trumpet, Adams, by P. C. Heckenberry; waltz "Blue Lullaby," Strauss, "Largo," by Handel, "Simple Ave," Thoms, selection, "Robert Le Diable," Meyerbeer; march, "Tannhauser," Wagner; Have You Sought a Beloved?

sees. "Just allow me, please," says she, fastening for a fraction of a second a hypnotic eye on the victim. Then she encircles his waist with a belt, fastens the harness and he is ready to be led. The belt comes in three pieces. "It's a difference in the quality of the leather," she explains. Few escape, for what man would be so rude and ungallant as to unfasten a belt placed around his manly form by such fair hands?

Annual Notes Nuisance.
The annual noise nuisance has begun with misguided juvenile patriots exploding firecrackers, making demagogic havoc with the public peace, and causing insurance agents to quake in their shoes. Although this June 25, the agents of racket are unloosed and the kids are getting practice for the great national day of maiming and slaughter. Something ought to be done to curb the anxiety to celebrate the Fourth of July long before the next lot after May is torn from the calendar.

Hot Weather Man.
The Weather Man was so well pleased with the way he made the people droop on Monday and Tuesday that he cut out another day from the same bolt of flannel Wednesday. Something brought in a cool breeze during the day that made it somewhat more endurable, and look old General Humidity back to his tent, but still left neatly doing guard duty, even while old Jupiter Pluvius drove his sprinkling wagon with the sprinkler only open a little ways.

Cut and Burned.
George H. Lockard, a well known roller, was the victim of a severe accident that will put him off work at the mill for a few weeks at least by being cut and burned with a sheet while at work Tuesday. A hot sheet caught him in the left arm cutting a big wound which it required several stitches to close. As the sheet was hot it made an agonizing burn at the same time.

A Personal Nature.
Mrs. E. M. S. Pyle and son, Master Wilbur, have gone to Martin's Ferry, O., where they will join Mrs. Pyle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Faust, for a trip to the Great Lakes. Miss Dora Culler, who has been attending the California Normal School, is home for her vacation. Miss Pauline Grey of Pittsburgh is visiting friends in Scottdale.

Mrs. Ferguson, wife of Burgess William Ferguson, is visiting friends in Pittsburgh. Mr. and Mrs. J. Clyde Whitely arrived home from their wedding trip yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Whitely was Miss Rebecca McChubb and Mr. Whitely is a Connelville boy.

BOYS' LEAGUE DISCUSSED.
Organization of Local and Scottdale Y. M. C. A. Teams May be Effected.

The idea of a Y. M. C. A. Boys League movement in Scottdale and Connelville, is now being discussed by those directly interested in the association work. Physical Director Prosch of the local institution will have charge of the forming of the league and will go over to Scottdale next week in the interest of the league.

It is proposed that there shall be one club in the local Y. M. C. A. and two or three in Scottdale. Track athletes, base ball and foot ball will be taken up in their turn. The Anti-Cigarette League of the First Baptist church of Scottdale and the Y. M. C. A. Juniors of Scottdale are spoken of as members of the league, and it is expected that either another club in Scottdale and Connelville can be gotten.

Are You a Trust Buster?

Hey—You! Yes, YOU'RE the man we mean.

You're always talking about the harm the trusts are doing. The country's going to the demmition lowdown, you say, because of the unscrupulous trusts. Rich growing richer, poor getting poorer. Used to be that a poor man could go into business for himself in a modest way and make a good living. Now he must become a clerk or a rent-a-bout or a hiear-rier for some corporation—some combination that has grown to be a Goliath of bigness, that has devoured the fat of the land and is still gorm-mundizing upon it, till there's not a scrap of bone left for the under dog.

That's your line of talk. You're still handing it out, and you're proud of it.

Well, now, let's see: Are YOU a trust-buster YOURSELF?

Didn't we see you stalk up to the postoffice just now and mail a letter with the address of a city Mail Order Store on the envelope? Hey? Didn't we?

Don't you know that the Mail Order Store is a trust—one of the most dangerous in the crowd? Don't you know that it is secretly and silently and slyly closing the doors of opportunity to the young men in country towns and small cities like ours? Don't you know that the Mail Order Trust is collecting the patronage of town and country people by the mail route, thereby cutting down the patronage of the smaller merchant, the local man who is trying to build up a modest, independent, anti-trust business?

Hey?

Didn't that ever occur to you?

N. B. (which means note well): Why don't you trade at home instead of helping to build up a trust that hurts your home place?

MEET AT OYSTER BAY.

Momentous Political Conference Will Be Held There on Saturday.

THEODORE JUNIOR HUNTS A JOB

Eldest Son of the President Foregoes Yale-Harvard Boat Race in Order to Look Up a Situation—Secretary Leob Tells All About It.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 25.—Changes in the plans of the president announced following receipt of news of former President Cleveland's death did not extend to the conference, previously arranged to be held here on Saturday. This conference has fair to be an important one from a political standpoint and is likely to have results which will manifest themselves speedily in developments connected with the presidential campaign.

Secretary of War Taft and General Luke E. Wright, who is to assume the war portfolio on the presidential nominee's retirement July 1, President Roosevelt will have on Saturday several other guests, including a number of members of the Republican national committee. The personal of the visiting party as a whole has not yet been made known, but it is believed that it will include a representation of the national committee sufficient to give the weight of official political authority to whatever conclusions may be arrived at. It is the intention of the president to talk over the general political situation, and the probabilities are that after the conference the name of the man who will be the chairman of the next Republican national committee will be known.

Theodore, Jr., seeks job. Secretary Leob made public a statement in reference to the published report that the president's son, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., intended entering the employ of the United States Steel corporation. The statement indicates that the president's son may not continue his studies at Yale. The statement of Secretary Leob follows:

"The story as regards its implication is a pure falsehood. John Greenway, who was in the president's regiment, has told young Roosevelt that he will try him on a job simply one of the ordinary minor jobs, exactly as he tries hundreds of others every year and is trying hundreds this year. Young Roosevelt is at this moment off seeing if there was a chance at another job where he was told he might get employment, having been up going on the day after tomorrow for the purpose of looking up this particular place, which is in connection with a well-known manufacturing concern. He will probably not decide for two or three months which particular place he will try.

Strictly on His Merits. "Except for the publication in the newspapers, neither the president nor young Roosevelt know that the company for which Greenway is superintendent has any connection either directly or indirectly with the steel corporation. If it has, it will certainly make no difference. Young Roosevelt, if he goes into it, will be hired as a laborer and stand strictly on his own merits. The president does not know whether Mr. Greenway's company has any connection with the steel trust, but he knows Mr. Greenway well and he knows that not all the officials of the steel trust could persuade him to put on or keep off a single man unless it met with his approval. This offer was purely of Mr. Greenway's own volition and the president does not believe a human being could say he will take him on and try him as a laborer just as anyone else is tried."

TO OPPOSE BRYAN

Guffey Said to Back Former Boss of New Jersey.

Johnstown, June 25.—Secretary Warren Worth Ball of the Bryan League of Pennsylvania says he has received private advice from New York to the effect that the corporation interests opposed to the nomination of Bryan at Denver have chosen ex-Senator James Smith of New Jersey as the candidate around whom they will rally and endeavor to nominate. National Committeeman Guffey of Pittsburgh is said to be one of the moving spirits.

National Delegate Robert E. Cresswell of Cambria county comes out with a statement in which he says he will fight any proposition looking to the reelection of Guffey as committeeman, and that so soon as the Pennsylvania delegation reaches Denver the Bryan men will be massed in opposition to the forces of the Pittsburgh man in the caucus.

Murdered in the Philippines. Manila, June 25.—A telegram from the island of Negros tells of the murder of H. D. Everett, a government forester, T. R. Vakeley, a school teacher, and four Filipinos by hill tribesmen. The party had started across the island of Negros, which is one of the least civilized of the extreme southern group of islands, and had been missing for six weeks.

Altoona, Pa., June 25.—Fitcher McKinney of New York Mills has been signed by Altoona.

SHERMAN IS BETTER.

Vice Presidential Candidate Shows Many Symptoms of Improvement.

Cleveland, June 25.—Congressman James S. Sherman of Utica, N. Y., Republican vice presidential candidate, who was taken ill here last Sunday with a passage of gall stones while on his way home from the Chicago convention, is feeling most comfortably. Drs. Edward P. Carter, Dudley P. Allen and C. W. Stone were most pleased with the progress made and are of the opinion that the necessity for an immediate operation has been passed. They advised Mr. Sherman to have the trouble removed as soon as he shall gain his normal health.

Mr. Sherman's condition was best indicated by the reading of his temperature, which showed a general lowering of two and a half degrees since last night. The physicians considered this a hopeful sign.

Mrs. Sherman is in much better spirits. She is almost recovered from her exhaustion following the long journey here on a hot day. It is not expected that Mr. Sherman will be able to leave the hospital before Sunday. He attended to his correspondence today and sent a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

"While Mr. Sherman's condition is hourly growing better and there is every reason to anticipate his speedy recovery, yet his illness is of such a nature that there may be a critical turn at any time," Dr. Carter, the attending physician, said. "I do not anticipate a sudden change. The patient is under constant watch."

At a conference with Dr. Herman, Dr. Allen, Dr. Stone and myself we could see no necessity for an immediate operation, but we did advise that an operation be performed in the near future. While his condition does not warrant this immediate step, yet I cannot predict what tomorrow may bring forth."

During his waking hours the candidate conversed freely with those at his bedside. He suffered no pain. During the day he sent the following message to Mrs. Cleveland:

"The news of the death of your distinguished husband was a great shock to me. You have my sincere sympathy."

Mr. Sherman's temperature did not go below 100 during the day, although it was as high as 102.4 at 4 a. m. The pulse was 90 at 7 a. m. and went down to 76 from 1 to 4 p. m. The respiration dropped from 32 at 7 a. m. to 24 at 11 a. m.

TANKS DESTROYED

Lightning Plays Havoc With Warren Oil Refinery.

Warren, Pa., June 25.—Not until 5 o'clock last evening did the flames leave the plant of the Warren Refining company, which was struck by lightning, causing a $75,000 fire. The blaze was at 7 a. m. and went down to 76 from 1 to 4 p. m. The respiration dropped from 32 at 7 a. m. to 24 at 11 a. m.

Great clouds of smoke rolled from the plant and flames shot thirty feet high. By hard fighting the flames were kept from the benzine tanks until 6 o'clock, when one large tank ignited and the blaze soon spread to the other tanks. W. and M. Co. and M. Co. owners of the plant, cannot state whether their loss is fully covered by insurance. Many houses adjoining the refinery were in danger of being burned through the explosion of tanks and the occupants moved their goods to safety.

On Jan. 1, 1900, this refinery was totally burned, but was immediately rebuilt and will probably be in operation within three weeks.

Washington, Pa., June 25.—All danger of further damage from the fire tanking from a tank of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Pipe Line company at Mendonville being struck by lightning is past. The 70,000 barrels of oil were consumed, although the oil-soaked ground is still smoking.

LUZERNE COUNTY IN LEAD.

Produced Almost One-Third of Total Output During Year—Table Showing Quantity, Value and Average Price for Past Five Years.

The production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania in 1907 reached the enormous total of 76,422,111 long tons, exceeding that of 1906 by 12,757,411 tons, and that of 1905, which had previously been greatest, by 7,093,293 tons. Of the total output 27,103,293 long tons were shipped to markets, 1,516,831 tons were sold to local trade, and 7,450,806 tons were used at the mines for steam or heat. The value of the product, including that of the coal used at the mines, of which no account has been taken in estimates for previous years, was $138,584,056, an average of $2.35 per ton, or 5 cents per ton in excess of the average price in 1906.

The following table shows the quantity, value, and average price per ton of anthracite coal produced during the last five years, together with the number of days worked. The figures include the year, the second quantity (long tons), the third value, the fourth average price per ton, the fifth average number of men employed, and the sixth average number of days worked:

Year	Quantity (Long Tons)	Value	Average Price per Ton	Average Number of Men Employed	Average Number of Days Worked
1907	76,422,111	$138,584,056	$2.35	150,343	206
1906	63,664,700	$138,584,056	$2.35	155,351	200
1905	60,369,122	$141,970,000	$2.35	145,400	212
1904	61,565,010	$131,917,594	$2.30	142,255	196
1903	64,432,421	$133,945,000	$2.35	147,231	228

More than one-third of the total output was produced in Luzerne county (27,429,876 long tons). Lackawanna county stands second in rank, with 20,995,727 tons, and Schuylkill third, with 17,963,145 tons. Northumberland county produced more than 6,000,000 tons, Carbon county more than 2,000,000 and Columbia more than a million tons. Dauphin and Susquehanna counties rank seventh and eighth, respectively.

The total production includes also 286,055 tons of coal from Sullivan county in regard to the classification of which there has been much contention. "The fracture of the coal and some of its physical characteristics would seem to place it among the bituminous or semi-anthracite coals, but on account of its high percentage of fixed carbon and low percentage of moisture it is classified as anthracite by the geologists of the Second Geological Survey of Pennsylvania.

Detailed statistics of the production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania in 1907 has been collected for the United States Geological Survey by William W. Rulley and will soon be published as an advanced chapter from Mineral Resources of the United States, Calendar Year 1907.

Library Notes.

The July numbers of magazines are being put on the tables in the Periodical room from day to day.

"Who's Who in Pennsylvania" for 1908, and "Who's Who in the World" for 1908, are now on the shelves. The latter is a book of eleven volumes, new editions to the Reference room shelves.

The United States Bureau of Education reports in the Periodical room that the Carnegie Library has been catalogued and are now accessible to any one desiring to use them. The library now borrows books from the Carnegie Library at Pittsburgh for readers desiring books not on our shelves. The applicant pays book express, which amounts to 15 cents on an average. The New York Library gives Churchill's "Mr. Greer's Career," as one of its most popular books. This book is in the Carnegie Free Library. Another interesting new book is Hurler's "Master of the Inn," which is described by a critic as an "ideal phase of modern thought."

DOES NOT KNOW HIS SALARY.

Thomas Means Named as Union Township Principal But Salary Not Fixed.

Several weeks ago Thomas Means was elected principal of the North Union township school succeeding Earl D. Burner of Ohio, who occupied the position for three years, but the board is now delinquent over the salary to be paid the new principal. Means was formerly principal at Leont and received $90 per month, the same rate of pay that the township has been giving.

Dr. H. W. Means, member of the board, and through whose influence Means was elected, proposed that the new principal be paid $90 per month for the first twelve months, Burner only received $80 for the eight months term and this caused trouble. A vote on the question resulted in a tie and although the principal has been elected he does not know what his wages will be.

EAT LESS, DRINK LESS, HOT WEATHER ADVICE.

Government Expert Warns Connelleville Folk of What Should Be Sunk in Summer.

Dr. Weather Advice. Eat one-fourth less in summer than in winter. Eat most in moderation. Select the lighter meats. Banish all alcoholic beverages. Eat most largely of cooked fruits and vegetables. Drink nothing below 60 degrees in temperature, and drink sparingly. Be careful to seek the society of cheerful friends. Practice moderation in open air exercise. Don't fret; don't worry.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, food expert of the government, has few drastic rules for eating and drinking during the heated term.

"Thousands of people are made sick in summer because they do not know how or what to eat," observed Dr. Wiley. "But the same criticism applies to the winter season as well. Few people follow definite rules. Moderate eating, moderate drinking, moderate exercise in the open air and cheerful friends will keep any good man alive through the summer."

"Eating in summer should be diminished about one-quarter, inasmuch as the heat energy is about one-quarter less than in winter."

"Fruits and vegetables are the normal diet for summer, provided they are cooked. If eaten raw they should not be contaminated with pathogenic bacteria."

Few persons who delight in raw fruits for breakfast have any idea of pathogenic bacteria, its appearance or its taste. If it has any. So apples, peaches, grapes and even the delectable grape fruit are to be banished because they may have been contaminated. Stewed fruits are good. If you like them and the contamination has been cooked out of them, eat them."

"The festive 'highball' and the more phobian 'scuttle of ends' are to be put aside. Alcohol when exhaled is nothing but heat, and these summer days are hot enough. Should more alcohol be used than is oxidized, the user gets poisoned. It is hard to tell during the summer season when the alcohol in food is going to stop oxidizing, so the safest plan is to cease drinking."

"Care should be taken against over-indulgence in very cold drinks or frozen refreshments. On hot days no beverages being decreased in temperature should be taken. Otherwise they are apt to produce what physicians describe as ice water dysentery. Soda water and ice cream are alike bad when taken in large quantities. Observe the law of moderation and eat and drink slowly."

Here Dr. Wiley interrupts his solemn warnings to break into verse: "Put away a man, both young and old, Has seen to it his own feelings, By pouring water, key cold, Anon his hot esophagus. 'Tell your readers to be cheerful! It might be worse,' Dr. Wiley concluded."

Stand-Platform Defeated.

Watkins, Ind., June 25.—Governor A. B. Cummins, leader of the so-called progressives, was chosen permanent chairman of the Republican state convention here, defeating Robert Healy, the choice of the stand-platform. The convention adopted a state platform which gave enthusiastic endorsement to Governor Cummins and the progressive legislation upon railroad and corporation questions. The platform also gave warm endorsement to the service of the Iowa delegation in congress.

"And after you have reached the place and settled yourself you will tell the postmaster and telegraph operator who you are and where you may be found, so that messages may reach you promptly. If you get an unsigned message advising you of—let me consider—a shipment of steers, you may expect me any hour. On the other hand, you may not see me at all. We'll consider that our agreement lasts until the first snow flies next winter. You are a soldier. There need be no further discussion of this matter, Oscar."

The man nodded gravely. "And it is well for you not to reappear in this hotel. If you should be questioned on leaving here—"

"I have not been here—in it not?"

"It is," replied Armitage smiling. "You read and write English?"

"Yes, one must to serve in the army."

"If you should see a big German with a neck like a bull and a head the size of a pea, who speaks very bad German, you will do well to keep out of his way unless you find a good place to tie him up. I advise you not to commit murder without special orders. Do you understand?"

"It is the custom of the country," answered Oscar in a tone of deep regret. "To be sure," laughed Armitage. "And now I am going to give you money enough to carry out the project I have indicated."

He took from his trunk a long bill-book, counted out twenty new one hundred dollar bills and threw them on the table.

"It is much money," observed Oscar, counting the bills laboriously. "It will be enough for your purposes. You can't spend much money up there if you try. Bacon, perhaps, a cow may be necessary—who can tell without trying? Don't write me any letters or telegrams and forget that you have seen me if you don't hear from me again."

He went to the elevator and rode down to the office with Oscar and dismissed him carelessly. Then John Armitage bought an armful of magazines and newspapers and returned to his room quite like any traveler taking the comfort of his inn.

Chapter XI

THE TONGUE OF A NAUFRIG.

CAPTAIN Richard Claiborne gave a sumptuous supper at the Army and Navy club for ten men in honor of the newly arrived military attaché of the Spanish legation. He had drawn his guests largely from his foreign acquaintances in Washington because the Spanish spoke little English and Dick knew Washington well enough to understand that, while a girl and a man who speak different languages may sit comfortably together at table, men in like predicament grow more and more likely to quarrel with their eyes before the cigars are passed. It was Friday, and the whole party had witnessed the drill at Fort Myer that afternoon, with nine girls to listen to their explanation of the maneuvers and the earliest spring bride for champagne. Shirley had been of the party and somewhat the heroine of the too for it was Dick who sat on his horse out in the tankard with the little white to his lips and manly to the top of his head.

"Here's a confusion of tongues. I may need you to interpret," laughed Dick, indicating a chair at his left and when Armitage sat down he faced Claiborne across the round table.

With the first filling of glasses it was found that every one could speak French, and the talk went forward spiritedly. The discussion of military matters naturally occupied first place. Then they fell to talking about individuals, chiefly men in the public eye, and as the Austro-Hungarian embassy was in mourning and represented at the table the new emperor king was discussed with considerable frankness.

"He has not old Stroebel's right hand to hold him up," remarked a young German officer.

"There's hangs a dark tale," remarked Claiborne. "Somebody stuck a knife into Count von Stroebel at a singularly inopportune moment. I saw him in Geneva two days before he was assassinated, and he was very feeble and seemed harassed. It gives a man the shudders to think of what might happen if his majesty Charles Louis should go by the board. His only child died a year ago—after him his cousin Francis, and then the duke."

"Bah! Francis is not as dark as he's painted. He's the most lied about prince in Europe," remarked Chauvenet. "He would most certainly be an improvement on Charles Louis. But, alas, Charles Louis will undoubtedly live on forever, like his lamented father. The king is dead! Long live the king!"

"Nothing can happen," remarked the German sully. "I have lost much money betting on upheavals in that direction. If there were a man in Hungary it would be different. But riots are not revolutions."

"That is quite true," said Armitage quietly. "But," observed the Spaniard, "if the Archduke Karl had not gone out of his head and died in two or three dozen places, so that no one is sure he is dead at all, things at Vienna might be rather more interesting. Karl took a son with him into exile. Suppose one or the other of them should reappear, stir up strife and incite rebellion?"

"Such speculations are quite idle," commented Chauvenet. "There is no doubt whatever that Karl is dead or we should hear of him."

"Of course," said the German. "If he were not the death of the old emperor would have brought him to life again."

"The same applies to the boy he carried away with him—undoubtedly dead, or we should hear of him. Karl disappeared soon after his son Francis was born. It was said—"

"A pretty tale it is," commented the German, "that the child wasn't exactly Karl's own. He took it quite hard—went away to hide his shame in exile, taking his son, Frederick Augustus with him."

"He was surely mad," remarked Chauvenet sipping a cordial. "He is much better dead and out of the way for the good of Austria. Francis as I say is a good fellow. We have hunted together, and I know him well."

They fell to talking about the lost sons of royal houses—and a goodly number there have been, even in these later centuries—and then of the latest marriages between American women and titled foreigners. Chauvenet was now leading the conversation. It might even have seemed to a critical listener that he was guiding it with a certain intention.

He laughed as though at the remembrance of something amusing and held the little company while he bent over a candle to light a cigar.

"With all due respect to our American host, I must say that a little in America goes further than anywhere else in the world. I was at Bar Harbor three years ago when the Baron von Kessel devastated that region. He made sad havoc among the ladies that summer. The rest of us simply had no place to stand. You remember gentle men—and Chauvenet looked slowly around the listening circle—"that the unexpected arrival of the excellent ambassador of Austria-Hungary caused the baron to leave Bar Harbor between dark and daylight. The story was that he got off in a sailboat and the next we heard of him he was masquerading under some title in San Francisco where he proved to be a dangerous forger. You all remember that the papers were full of his performance for awhile, but he was a nasty rascal and always disappeared at the proper psychological moment. If and as you may say, the cosmopolitan agent and was the most plausible fellow alive."

"It's my experience that we never meet a person once only—there's always a second meeting somewhere—and I was not at all surprised when I ran upon my old friend the baron in Germany last fall."

"At his old tricks, I suppose," observed some one.

No. That was the strangest part of it. He's struck a deeper game though. I'm blessed if I can make it out. He's dropped the title altogether and now calls himself Mister—I've forgotten for the moment the rest of it, but it is an English name. He's made a stake somewhere and travels about in decent comfort. He passes now as an American—his English is excellent and he fits in large American interests."

"He probably has forged securities to sell," commented the German. "I know those fellows. The business is best done quietly."

"I dare say," returned Chauvenet. "Of course you greeted him as a long lost friend," remarked Claiborne loudly.

"No, I wanted to make sure of him and strangely enough he assisted me in a very curious way."

All felt that they were now to hear the denouement of the story and several men bent forward in their absorption, with their elbows on the table. Claiborne smiled and resumed, with a little shrug of his shoulders.

"Well, I must go back a moment to say that the man I knew at Bar Harbor had a real crest. The ladies to whom he wrote notes treasured them, I dare say, because of the pretty insignia. He had it engraved on his cigarette case, a bird of some kind tip-toeing on a helmet and beneath there was a motto. 'Fide Non Armis'."

"The devil!" exclaimed the young German. "What's that very like?"

Very like the device of the Austrian Schombrugg. Well, I remembered the cigarette case, and one night at a concert—in Berlin you know—I chanced to sit with some friends at a table quite near where he sat alone. I had my eye on him, trying to assure myself of his identity when in closing his cigarette case it fell almost at my feet and I bumped heads with a waiter as I picked it up—I wanted to make sure—and handed it to him the imitation baron.

"That was your chance to startle him a trifle, I should say," remarked the German.

"He was the man beyond doubt. There was no mistaking the cigarette case. What I said was," continued Chauvenet. "Allow me, baron."

"Well spoken," exclaimed the Spaniard.

"Not so well, either," laughed Chauvenet. "He had the best of it. He's a clever man, I am obliged to admit. He said— And Chauvenet's mirth stifled him for a moment.

He tossed his napkin on the table so that it covered the gold trinket.

"Yes, what was it?" demanded the German impatiently.

He said, 'Thank you, waiter, and put the cigarette case back into his pocket.'

They all laughed. Then Captain Claiborne's eyes fell upon the table and rested idly on John Armitage's cigarette case lying on the edge of the table on the smoothly worn gold of the surface, on the snowy falcon and the silver helmet on which the bird poised. He started slightly, then tossed his napkin carelessly on the table so that it covered the gold trinket completely.

"Goodness," he said, "if we are going to show ourselves at the balling-ton ball we'll have to run along."

Below in the coat room Claiborne was fastening the tops of his military overcoat when Armitage, who had waited for the opportunity spoke to him.

"That story is a lie, Claiborne. That man never saw me or my cigarette case in Berlin, and moreover I was never at Bar Harbor in my life. I gave you some account of myself on the King Edward. They would of it is true."

"You should face him—you must have it out with him," exclaimed Claiborne. And Armitage saw the conflict and uncertainty in the other's eyes.

But the time hasn't come for that.

Then if there is something between you—begin Claiborne the doubt now clearly dominant.

There is undoubtedly a great deal between us, and there will be more before we reach the end.

Think, Claiborne, was a perfectly frank outpouring of his heart and this time of my story is a man whose character had just been boldly assailed and he

"Good God, man! I know as much about Claiborne as I do about you. This thing is never over. I must see I don't like it. I'll see you get to do more than do a disinterested story like that by a fellow who's standing here in as good a way as you, if you don't offer some better explanation of the story. One more night I shall have to ask you to sit up with me—and the question of my fault."

Armitage's face was grave but he smiled as he took his hat and left. "I shall not be able to satisfy you of my responsibility by tomorrow."

He went in fact to his room, and sent a messenger to his room, to say that he was not at home.

Then he returned to the New American and picked up his telegrams.

The fan.

The history of the fan is almost as old as the history of the world. One might almost imagine it floating in primitive fashions of palm leaves or reeds in the golden age. The Egyptians used fans of strange shape made of palm-leaf or papyrus at their religious ceremonies. The Romans used a diadem of a sort of circular fan, on occasions of state and the early Greeks had fans made of flat leaves of the lotus. The Chinese and Japanese have always been great fan lovers and their infinite care upon their decoration. Men and women use them alike. These fans are of painted and embroidered silk, gilded paper, ostrich or peacock feathers with sticks of violet wood, sandal, ivory or pearl. Queen Elizabeth owned alibis as many as dresses and had a man for collecting them. Her subjects were in the habit of offering these trifles to their royal mistress. Mme. de Pompadour loved a fan and encouraged the art of fan painting. Her collection of fans was enormous. George Watteau and other renowned painters did not disdain to lend their art to fan painting. It was mostly executed on chicken skin or vellum.

Proved Useful.

"When you was little was you spanked like I am to make you good, papa?"

"I was my son and spanked him too."

"Then you can't feel me no more 'cause if it didn't make you good it won't make me good"—San Francisco Call.

COKERS TO GO ON LONG TRIP WITH STRENGTHENED TEAM.

New Men Secured By Manager Montgomery Expected to Restore Winning Streak—Collegians Here Today.

The Pittsburgh Collegians arrived in town this morning from Pittsburgh ready to do battle with the Cokers. The Collegians have been playing winning ball all over Pennsylvania, defeating some of the best professional and independent teams in Pennsylvania. "Toots" Shultz, one of the best college pitchers in the country, will pitch for the Pittsburghers. Shultz has received several offers from the New York Nationals and other big league teams, but refuses to play professional ball.

After today's game with the Collegians the locals will find some hard games on their schedule. On Friday the Onions will be in our midst, and it is the last time until July 21, there is sure to be some lively playing. Scottsdale comes here on Saturday, and the pace that the Millers have been traveling bodes ill for indifferent ball playing by the locals. Throughout the season Connellsville has been a badger to the Westmoreland town, but the Millers are determined to make a pretty fight for fifth honors. Sunday will be a day of rest for the locals, but on Monday and Tuesday a trip to Charleroi will be made. The Cherus started on the downward road in the last series with the Cokers, but have now been strengthened with the acquisition of several O. & F. players. The "Reddy" Mack at their head, will be the attraction on July 1, 2 and 3. The "Babies" have been greatly strengthened since their last appearance by Guest, late of Uniontown, McCombs of Wheeling, Cora of the W. V. U. and several other experienced players. According to information given out by Manager Montgomery, the local team will be greatly bolstered up in the next two weeks. A general shake-up is expected in the next few days, and some of the favorites will be let go. It is well known that the Connellsville is greatly out-drawing the other towns in the league and that they are justified in having a pennant-winning team. Last year at the first of the year Connellsville drew higher league crowds but the fans, disgusted by the poor showing during the season made by the team, quit patronizing it until the players were, near the close of the season, thrown on their own resources. At the beginning of this year the Cokers had eight old West Penn players on the team, while Uniontown had a team composed of old P. O. M. and O. & F. League players.

A special car will be run from Uniontown tomorrow to accommodate the County Seat fans. Cannon will be on the mound for the locals while Schettler will do the pitching for the Onions. "Tup" Fluvius let the floodgates open yesterday, thereby saving the would-be Champions from a drubbing at the hands of the boys representing the center of the coke region. Both teams had arrived at the park and had already begun to indulge in preliminary practice when a severe thunder shower broke immediately over the park, flooding the field. Even after the rain the grounds would have been all right to play, but Manager McClosky, knowing the playing qualities of the Cokers in the mud, wisely postponed the game. The two teams will probably play a double header on July 21, which is the next date that Connellsville visits Uniontown.

Quite a number of local fans, enthused by Wednesday's victory over the Onions, took the long trip to the County Seat, but were disappointed. Either Quinlan, the new recruit lately released by Charleroi, or Cannon would have worked. Quinlan comes highly recommended to Manager Montgomery from the East Liverpool club of the O. & F. League, where he pitched several games for the Potters. The only game that he has pitched in the P. & W. Va. League was the one he won from the locals on the Cherus' last visit here. This game was not lost through his failure to pitch winning ball but through lack of opportunity hitting by his teammates. He should be a valuable addition to the Cokers' pitching staff.

George Hale, a new recruit from Ohio, arrived in town yesterday, and will probably be pitched today against the Pittsburgh Collegians. Hale has a good record behind him. Gladfelder, the new outfielder from Washington, Pa., arrived in town today and will probably take Jacobson's place in right field. Gladfelder has been playing ball in the Interstate League but had been making arrangements to start an independent team in Washington when Montgomery got hold of him.

You've Seen Clothes That Hung Like an Empty Meal Sack.

That Suit Was Made to Sell
Not to Wear. It Hung
Without a Wrinkle When Its Owner Bought It.

A good hot iron in the hands of an expert tailor covers a multitude of clothing sins. It smoothes down a cheap interlining that has been only basted in. It causes the garment to present a perfect appearance and gives to it a faultless "hang" while it is being tried on, but linings of inferior quality, carelessly basted into the garment in place of careful stitching, is bound to become evident after a few days wear. The suit loses its shapeliness.

The curled, wrinkled linings are the predominant features and the suit looks like a plate of scrambled eggs. It's just this sort of clothing that we DON'T sell. The lining in Alfred Benjamin Clothing is carefully cut and stitched in by hand. When we sell you a suit we guarantee the permanency of fit and faultless shape.

FADS AND FASHIONS —FOR— FEMINE READERS.

NEW YORK, June 27.—It is now tremendously popular. The styles are untime to have one's midsummer but so numerous and there are some very latest, for when the settled hot weather comes the hat that has been worn in the season is either too dark in color or too heavy to wear at this time. The woman of good taste knows that her summer costumes must be cool and airy to produce the desired charm. A heavily trimmed hat looks as much out of place as a heavy suit and it is undoubtedly a burden to the wearer. Choose a light weight hat for summer and a light colored away is always attractive, although black is very effective with some thin dresses. Crin is very popular and it is suitable for every age and occasion because it can be so easily adapted to each individual style. The fingerless hats were never lovelier than they are this year and to young faces they are especially becoming. Leathers hats will ever be worn. They are often wired under the brim into a becoming shape, but the prettiest is the plain drooping brim. The latter is not an easy shape to wear, yet when seen on the right persons the effect is charming. For morning and outing wear the Panama hat is ex-are worn evenings to restaurant and theatre parties.

Collar and cuff sets to wear on coats are being embroidered by many a skillful needle worker in eyelet embroidery or with the flowers padded, or they may be left flat. The patterns are worked in plain, linen, lawn or handkerchief linen, but the lawn gives the prettiest results because the sheer material emphasizes the beauty of the embroidery. A new idea is in having a belt to match, thus making a complete set. These sets are becoming so popular that a coat to any walking suit looks incomplete without one. The fancy coats of silk and cloth have been found indispensable to have in the summer wardrobe, and each week some new model is being shown by the French dressmakers. There is that in finished cloth which is liked better than either silk or satin and this comes in all shades and colors. The smaller details of ornamentation should not be neglected, for the coat depends much on its trimmings. Buttons are extremely fashionable and handsome, the enamel, jewel, rhinestone and cut steel ones being in the fore. The enamel ones always match or harmonize with the color of the coat. A dressy finish that softens the neck and sleeves of many styles of coats is a very fine and beautiful lace. There is a great variety of choice in trimmings. Loops, gorge and braiding, bands of tiny hand tucks, shirtings or pullings are all one cent a word. Try them.
